[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE EVENING WORLD.] LONDON, Oct. 12 .- The first anniversary of the unveiling of the statue of Liberty Enlightening the World will be celebrated in Paris on the 28th inst. by a large banquet, in which the members of the French delegation who were in New York will participate. Many prominent Americans have also been invited to be present. Either M. de Lesseps or M. Spuller, Minister of Public Instruction, will preside.

THAT PRENCH ARMY SCANDAL.

The latest reports concerning the French army scandal go to show that the prosecution will end in smoke. It is now clear that Caffarel sold neither the plan of mobilization or concentration. He has recovered his spirits and confidence, but whether it be from want of convincing evidence or pressure exerted in high quarters, the prosecution will probably be dropped. Boulanger organs, in order to clear their idel from odium, having appointed Caffarel, demanded that he be publicly degraded in the Champs de Mars.

Smith's time is taken up in the treatment of cholera and the disinfection of rags. Thus President Bayles is left alone.

Provided a stray Commissioner can be found, an important meeting will be held this afternoon in regard to the cholera now under treatment at Quarantine. Dr. Smith, should he appear will be formally requested by Mr. Bayles to turn over to the Health Department all the passengers when they are dismissed from Quarantine, and then they will be taken, in all probability to North Brothers Island, where they must spend some more time before they are allowed to enter this city. President Bayles expresses his determination not to allow any of the persons on the Alesia to set foot on Manhattan Island until the development of cholera has passed the bounds of possibility.

Another death from cholera occurred at Swinburne Island to-day. The victim was a child. There are now nine cases on the island. No new case has occurred among the passengers on Hoffman Island.

The next move by Gould is awaited with interest. Just now it is not alone the question of his gobbling up a steamship company like the Pacific Mail, after forcing Hart to practically get down and out, or of making a grand coup like that in the case of the B. & O. telegraph that concerns the street. The great point is whether these things will bring him back to Wall street as a dashing speculator as of old. Gould long since announced his retirement from the speculative arena and has kept his word as far as can be ascertained. But if Gould puts his cash by the millions into various enterprises and is constantly on the look out for fresh fields to conquer, the presumption is that his own son will find it necessary to come into the market if only to protect their interests. For a long time the brokers have had little or nothing to do. Commack, Bateman and the rest of their party furnish business for but a handful of members, and unless matters improve there will be plenty of Stock Exchange seats to be had at low figures. The bears have been in clover for some time and many holders of stocks who see their margins wasting away under the repeated knocks given to the market began to look hopefully to Gould as the coming Moses who is to lead them safely out of their present deplorable plight. People who are seldom wrong say that when Gould gets Mackay to consent to a sale of the opposition cable, he will make things hum as he did in 1881-82, when eberything from the A1 dividend payer down to the "fancy" was sent kiting.

This brought them within the scope of the extradition laws and Chief Consul Elliott, of Gateshead, cabled to Inspector Byrnes to watch the Chapmans and secure their early arrest, papers for extradition being under preparation. A second cable despatch urged him to spare no pains to arrest the Chapmans, as their thefts would not be less than £5,000, or $25,000. It is believed here that double that amount was stolen. Detectives Goleen, Lewis and Ennis watched for the men day and night for many weary weeks and this morning surprised them in a fashionable boarding-house on Pineapple street, Brooklyn, and took them to Police Headquarters.

Miss Dauvray, whose real name is Helen Gibson, was born in Cincinnati in 1858. Her parents were well-to-do, and their home was in San Francisco. The little girl showed early promise of dramatic talent, and at five years of age she made her debut at the California Theatre, San Francisco, as Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." She proved a success at once, and during the next few years appeared in the principal cities of the United States, Canada and Australia. Besides playing in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" she took the part of Fidelia in "The Fire Chief." She was billed as "Little Nell, the California Diamond."

Stanley Brown, which had been fixed for Oct. 26. Mrs. Garfield and daughter expect to pass the winter in Europe, and will not return before next spring at the earliest. The wedding, therefore, will probably not take place until next autmun. They were not accompanied by Mr. Brown.

Notwithstanding the foregoing explanation, which is an authoritative statement from close family friends, the consensus of opinion in social circles here is that there was some interior purpose in this sudden disarrangement of long-matured plans, and current gossip is to the effect that the postponement of the wedding is not only until next year, but is indefinite.

Nothing positive is known, of course; but with the wedding day so near at hand it is argued, and with reason, that it could have been advanced to meet the emergency, if the illness of Miss Mason is calling Mrs. and Miss Garfield abroad, or if it were necessary to go a year's absense would not be entailed in consequence. Altogether the affair is most mysterious, and has afforded society here a choice morsel of gossip.
